First up, Cahit removed all the little bits of trim at the base of the windows. This allows the film to sit lower.

Templates are made of each window, then the tint film is cut to match the templates.

« The template films are slightly larger than the windows so they can be trimmed down perfectly once applied. The protective film is then removed and watered down.

» The window is sprayed with a mist of water, allowing the tint film to be easily moved around for application.

For an extra check, the film is laid on the exterior for a pre-shrinking prior to placing it inside.

The glass is then given a good clean with an abrasive pad, followed by a squeegee.

The film is laid upon the glass, with the window slightly down, and the moisture is smoothed out.

The glass and film is heated, shrunk to size, trimmed, then filed at the edges for a perfect fit.

WUZ'S PASSAT

IT'S TIME FOR SOME 'PRIVACY' ON THE GOOD SHIP GREENDUB

Un like last issue's, this month's project work on the Passat does not follow the theme of a popular television series. For that I can only apologise. However, it does tell you all about how good Tintsmart are...

OK, that may sound like a blatant sucky sucky comment, but I really can't fault the work of Cahit from Tintsmart. Most window tinters will tell you you need a perfectly dust-free environment to get anywhere near perfect results, yet Cahit is mobile and can do your windows anywhere. What's more, his results are second to none - which is probably why he was previously a trainer at the UK's top window tinters.

I was expecting to have to travel to get the tints done but the fact that Tintsmart's mobile is a gem. It means they can come to your house or place of work or wherever, and you can just sit back and relax while it's being done: you don't have the expense of travelling or the hassle of having no car for a day - brilliant. I guess that's why Cahit's portfolio is filled with cars of celebrity clients including David Beckham, Gordon Ramsay and Abi Titmuss, as well as work for major dealerships such as Mercedes and Honda.

Right at the start of the procedure Cahit checked what tints I wanted. I decided to go for a Light Smoke up front and a Smoke around the rear, keeping it nice and legal and not looking like a van or limo. As my car was evidently in good hands in the basement of FC towers, this meant I could go back to my desk in the office and just pop down occasionally with more cups of coffee and my camera to make sure all was going well. And every time I did, another window was done. Three hours later and - boom! - the Passat was finished (That means you were going down to the basement every half an hour... I'll make a note of that - Scary). I'm super happy with the results and, along with the Rotiforms, I really think it adds a touch of class to the Passat.

Anyways, look at the step by step pics to see the work in progress, then give Tintsmart an email or a call to get them to come to your house or place of work to tint your motor and drink your coffee. 🛠️
